

Celebrate CSUB

By: Crystal Martin

Professor Pratt

May 14, 2011

At 7:45 AM everyone worked hard setting up their booths before the event began at 8:00 AM

By 8:00 AM Celebrate CSUB visitors gathered information from the many booths located on the brick road

Students and faculty arrive to Celebrate CSUB and are given information about the various events that are taking place

These were some of the model vases the visitors got to see while deciding if they were interested in attempting to make their own

Pottery instructor showed student Kylynn Ward from Emerson Junior High how to mold a vase

Emerson Students Kynn Ward-8th grader and Karenza James-7th grader enjoyed their messy hands after experimenting with the pottery booth

The Art Club displayed their artwork and placed paper along the side walk inviting everyone to express themselves with their personal art piece

Art Department volunteers ride around in the roadrunner to give everyone a chance to see our mascot in a unique way

Masters in Business Administration provided free information about Business and Public Administration

FACT (Facility for Animal Care and Treatment) also set up their booth with a live owl, owl eggs, different types of feathers and information for all visitors

Campus Club-Black Women on Campus, enjoyed themselves while playing a game of toss

CSUB student Taylor Taylor instructed Trinity Penn a 6th grader from Franklin Elementary School on how to reach the maximum height while jumping

Children enjoyed their time at Celebrate CSUB and trying to keep cool and win a prize by playing water balloon toss

One of the many activities available at Celebrate CSUB are the jumpers for the children

Everyone waited patiently for their chance to get a free animal of their choice made out of balloons

Outside of the Dorothy Donohue Hall, clubs and programs set up their booths with free games and prizes for everyone

The Student Recreation Center was one of the main attractions at this event. Visitors were able to climb the rock wall as well as other activities located inside of the Recreation Center